New to polyamory?

A poly pro, but open to new connections?

Poly-saturated, but wonder where your tribe is?

Want to take your relationships to a new level?

Come meet your tribe!

Here is where you can meet other poly people at a deeper level, spend 5 days immersed in an all-poly environment, learn the skills needed to handle your relationships, and become a part of a supportive network of people who share your relationship values.

What is tribe? Tribe is your community, the people who accept you as you are. It is the people you can learn from, grow with, play with, and share life with.

Camp takes place at a private shady campground with a wild, whitewater stream alongside, about 2.5 hours west of the Washington DC area and 2.5 hours southeast of Pittsburgh. Campsites are included in the registration fee, and indoor accommodations are available from $75 for the whole event.

Not quite like anything else...

At our events, we live, work, learn and play together up to 5 days or more in a rustic woods-and-water setting. Hang out around a bonfire, enjoy a song circle, cuddle up at a snuggle party, learn skills to make your relationships richer and more satisfying, and build connections with others that last all year long!
